Prairie Care Child and Family Fund Grant Award

This project will deliver a series of parent education classes designed to educate, inform, and support families with a child that has an ADHD diagnosis, referral, or concerns. Session leaders will be medical and mental health professionals and others who can help parents navigate the difficult personal and system challenges. The project also includes: 1) training for elementary teachers and 2) an ADHD awareness campaign with student stories and pictures and a keynote speaker, Jonathan Mooney, on neurodiversity, inclusion, and personalized education. The goal is to increase the number of effective treatment plans for students and to create more responsive learning environments for children with different brain functioning and movement needs. Crestview Elementary is the lead and host school.

Grant Award: $18,990
