REPORT

A core value of the South Washington County School District is Continuous Improvement. This means we believe in a process of planning for action, implementation, studying the impact, and evaluating what steps are to be taken next. As a part of the strategic planning process, each school will create a school improvement plan or SIP that will align goals and action steps for the next year to three years.

Schools met with district officials this summer and started creating their SIP. The purpose of this report is to share with the Board how SIP's are created, why we believe they can help implement the strategic plan, and what steps are next in our continuous improvement process.
